Q4

To reach our collective potential, we must work together to build up Ottawa. That requires a council in which each member commits to city wide leadership. What is your intended approach to collaboration with council, city staff and economic partners?

Collaboration will require engagement with all stakeholders and partners implicated in municipal affairs, consistent two-way communication to let these stakeholders and partners know how their input was used in decision-making, it will require ongoing openness and transparency between council, staff, and partners. Ongoing engagement and not just communication, and ensuring all parties are at the table. Ongoing respectful behaviour always is also vital, even when there are differing viewpoints.

What key characteristics and skills do you possess that make you a great leader and ambassador for the city of Ottawa, and the national capital region?

Demonstrated leadership competencies that come from being an executive in the public service as well as a community leader- these include the ability to set vision, a focus on results-based management, and a proven ability for collaboration and engagement.

Q6

What are your top three priorities for Ottawa's future?

Sustainability -ensuring that the City of Ottawa is well-positioned for a low-carbon future

Vibrancy -that neighbourhoods are well-connected, livable, and that there are housing and mobility choices for all residents of Ottawa, no matter the socio-economic status

Prosperity - That there is continued innovation within the City, that businesses large and small thrive
