Q4

To reach our collective potential, we must work together to build up Ottawa. That requires a council in which each member commits to city wide leadership. What is your intended approach to collaboration with council, city staff and economic partners?

I am committed to being a leader in council by acting with accountability, transparency, and fiscal responsibility. I will always represent, first and foremost, the needs and interests of the residents of Kanata South. I believe strongly in wholistic public participation and consultation so we can understand the needs of all stakeholders in determining a best course forward for residents and developers. Regardless of who is elected, I will respectfully work with all members of council to move Ottawa forward into a thriving future.

Q5

What key characteristics and skills do you possess that make you a great leader and ambassador for the city of Ottawa, and the national capital region?

Being a woman, and an immigrant, I have worked with people like me who rely on city services for vulnerable groups. Therefore, I have a strong understanding on how we can improve these services for everyone.

I am mother of 3 young children, and am aware of the opportunities for improvement that exist with youth programs, and how the city can broaden its services to provide a more inclusive, intergenerational, and efficient approach to youth programs.

And finally, my experience as a senior economist with the federal government has equipped me with skills in working with large budgets and project management. Seeing how the city has handled the LRT project, I believe we need more councillors at city hall with these skills in order to create the greatest return on investment for every taxpayer dollar.

Q6

What are your top three priorities for Ottawa's future?

1) Keep life affordable by seeking out efficiencies in the city budget/operations so we may minimize any increase in taxes required to provide the services we need.

2) Addressing the climate emergency by working on both a more robust, comprehensive, and inclusive waste management system, and by improving our public transit and active transit infrastructure.

3) Maximize the utility of our community spaces and services so that people of all ages are able to participate in their community, be healthy, and feel valued.
